A computer system for conducting an auction through a computer network, the system comprising:

a posting means for posting to a computerized merchandise catalog information that is accessible through the computer network, the information describing each lot in plurality of lots available for auction, each lot including at least one item, the posting means being available to add a lot for auction during an auction of another lot, wherein the information related to items in each lot is automatically updated in the merchandise catalog as items in each lot are made available for auction; a bid receiving means for receiving a bid for at least a portion of a lot of the plurality of lots; a bid validation means for examining the bid; and a bid categorizing means for determining whether the bid is successful or unsuccessful.

Thank you so much! Kelly Campen
